EXTRA No. 19

1963 RINGS IN THE FUTURE

Story by Maggie 63

In 1963, Bell Systems introduced the push-button telephone, revolutionising communication and eliminating the frustration of rotary dialing. Its sleek, futuristic design sparked imaginations and hinted at a world of possibilities. Users were finally freed from the slow grind of rotary dials, embracing quicker, more intuitive connections. While adoption was gradual, this groundbreaking invention paved the way for innovations like speed dial and spared fingers everywhere from the tyranny of the rotary wheel.

FIRST WOMAN IN SPACE, 1963: COSMIC THREADS

Valentina Tereshkova, a textile worker turned cosmonaut, became the first woman in space in 1963. She proved you can literally sew dreams into reality. Now that's one giant leap for textiles!
